Value educators fairly and ensure our work is secure

Everyone from principals to office administrators are needed to make kura and schools safe, inclusive places of learning.

The scrapping of pay equity claims and reviews makes it clear how the Government sees the value of educators. Many who were impacted are also dealing with insecure hours or income. For example, 54% of teacher aides are on fixed-term agreements.

Every role matters for tamariki, and if we want to want to attract — and retain — great people to teaching, school leadership, learning support or support staff roles, we need to ensure fair pay and security.

Back our principals, support staff, learning support workers and teachers.

Kimi haeata means seek the dawn, and we're seeking a new dawn in education. Back our future!
